

Attendance Policy for Remote Learners

Remote student attendance is recorded based upon the completion of instructional activities and time spent using the school district's remote learning platform. It is expected that students will require an estimated 30 to 45 minutes per class each day to complete assigned work.

If a remote student is unable to complete instructional activities and/or unable to spend the necessary time on task (in other words, they are absent from doing their assigned work), parents or guardians shall send notification of explanation to the school no later than three days following the absence.

Students who become truant due to irregular attendance will be summoned to the Early Warning Program. Absences permitted by the Alabama State Department of Education can be found on page 41 of the Pelham City Schools Student Code of Conduct and Attendance Manual.
